Hi, everyone. I wanna ask you 2 questions. First, how would you prefer to die. Some of you would say we don't even have a choice for our death. So here comes my second question. What is death?

➡ Matthew Donnelly loved life. But Matthew Donnelly wanted to die...

P.151
Text B Unit 7
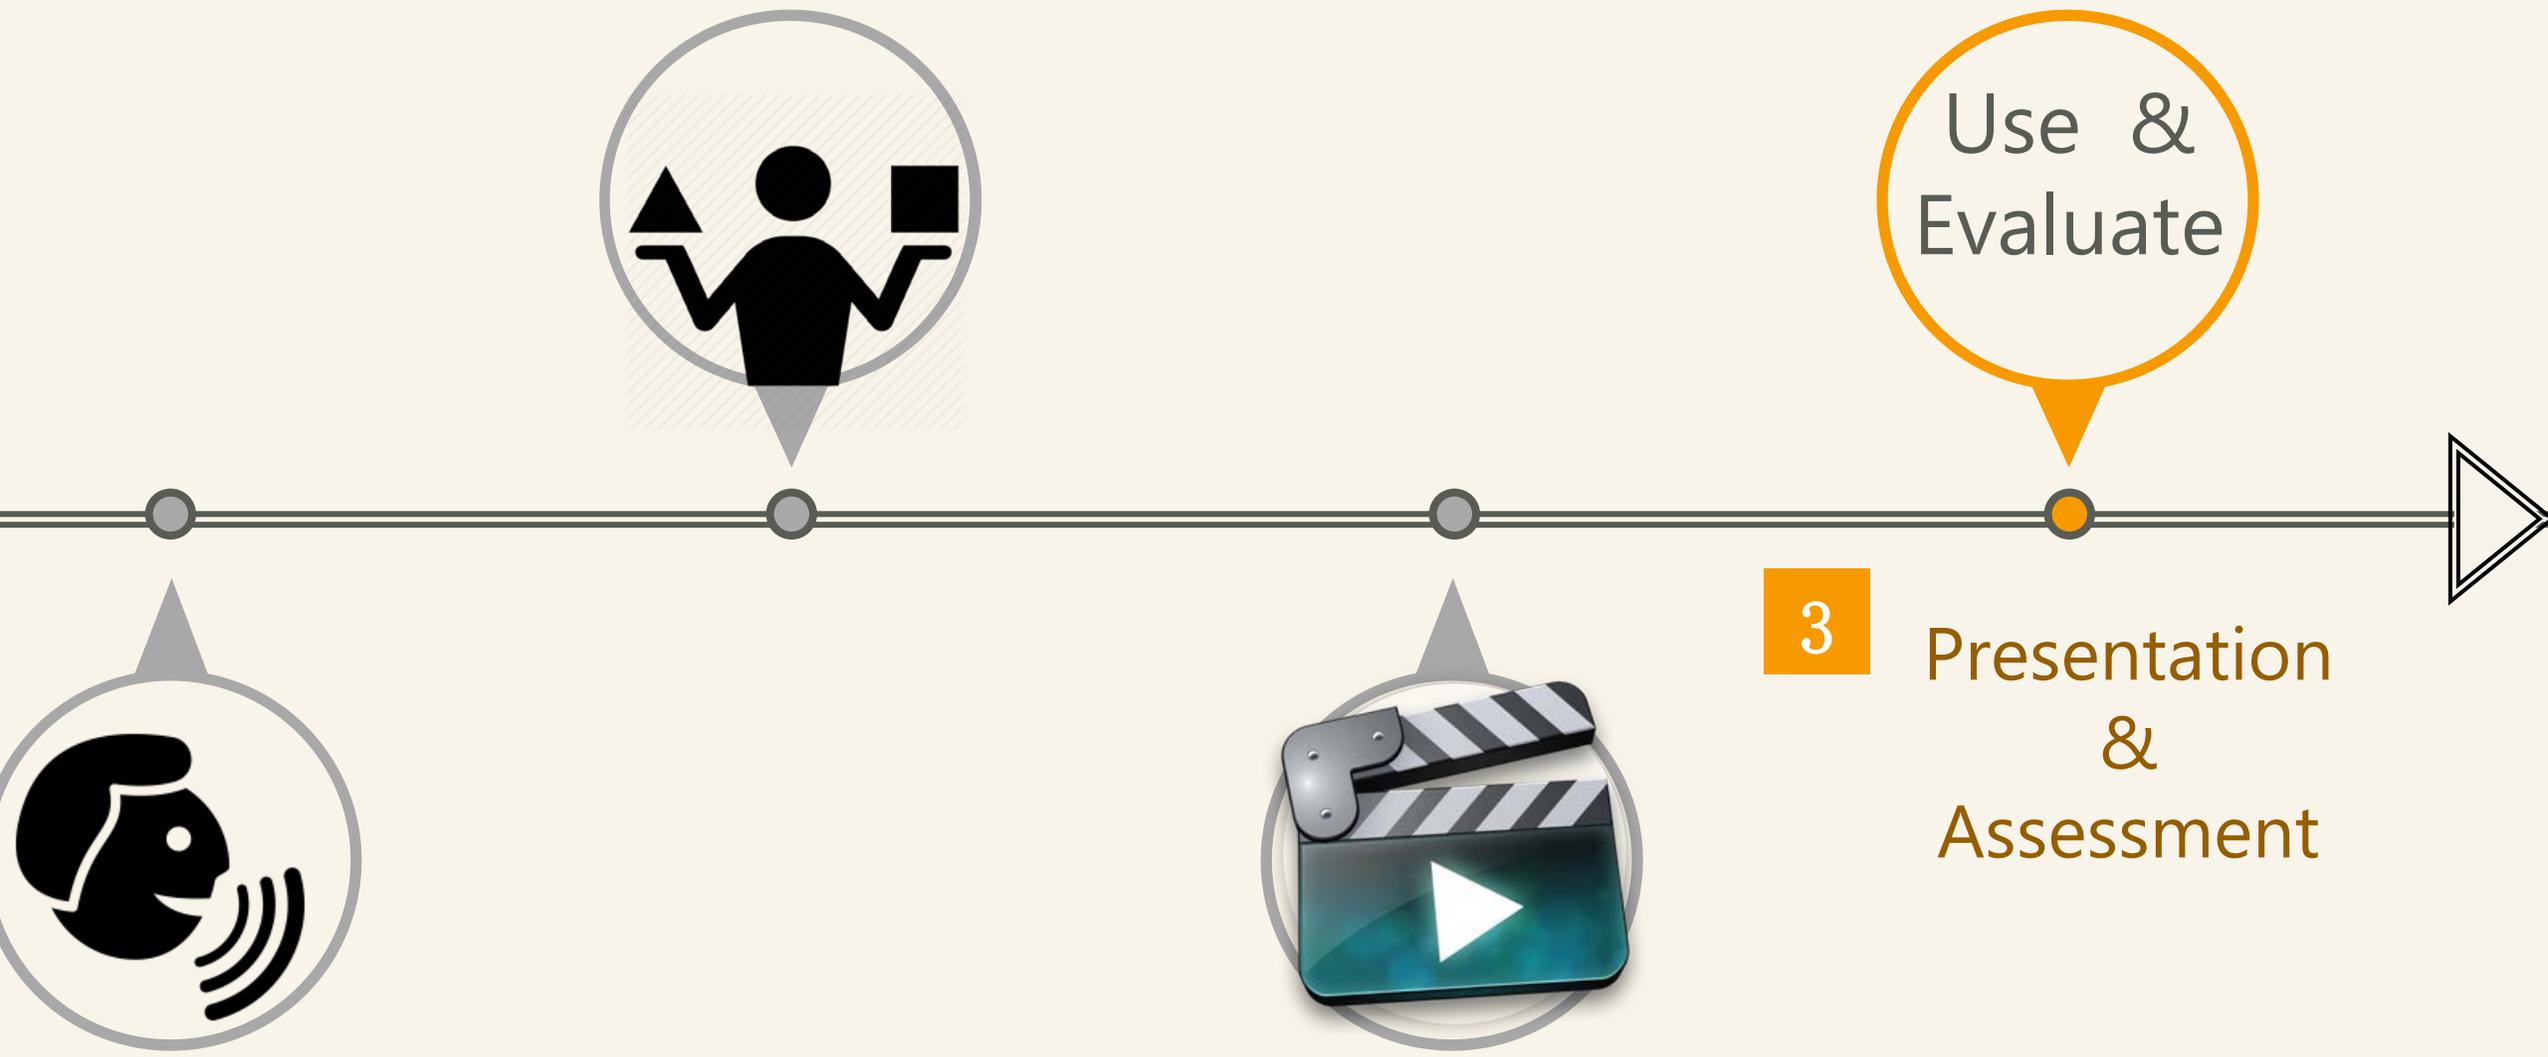

Assisted suicide:
A right or a wrong?

Claire Andre and Manuel Velasquez

1 Matthew Donnelly loved life. But Matthew Donnelly wanted to die. For the past 30 years, Matthew had conducted research on the use of X-rays. Now, skin cancer riddled his tortured body. He had lost his nose, his left hand, two fingers on his right hand, and part of his jaw. He was left blind and was slowly deteriorating. The pain was unrelenting. Doctors estimated that he had a year to live. Lying in bed with teeth clenched from the excruciating pain, he pleaded to be put out of his misery. Matthew wanted to die now. His pleas went unanswered. Then, one day, Matthew's brother Harold, unable to ignore Matthew's repeated cry, removed a .30 caliber pistol from his dresser drawer, walked to the hospital, and shot and killed his brother. Harold was tried for murder.

Guess what they are presenting!

➡ Presentation No. 1

➡ Do you have problems in moods and emotions? Statistics show that 21% university students are feeling frustrated with love; 54% students feel unsafe and unsecured in their current environments; 90% students have troubles of dormitory relationship. What would you do when facing such problems? To be silent? Angry? Or depressed? Here is what I am suggesting today, a Wechat public platform—Day Dream.

➡ Presentation No. 2

➡ For somebody like me, who majors in software in computer science, leaning English is hard. I always dream of reciting English words just like playing games and reading English articles just like reading fairytales. Now, something is making my dream come true.

Enjoy your journey!

➡ Presentation No. 3

➡ Our senior-high teachers used to tell us that there was a paradise in the university. But actually, there is no paradise. We are still busy with our study and under great pressure. Are you longing for something special and challenging in university? I major in tourism and hotel management. I want to introduce a bicycle tour to you! Let's cycle to Taiwan!
