

Table of Contents

Chapter
One	Introduction: Definitions, Context, and Literature Review	1
<hr/>
1.1	Definitions	1
1.1.1	Asian American and Chinese American	1
1.1.2	Chinese American Identity, Chineseness, and Americanness	2
1.1.3	Chinese American Life Writing	6
1.2	Context: Being Chinese, Becoming Chinese American	10
1.3	Literature Review	13
Chapter
Two	Theoretical Perspectives and Research Methodology	19
<hr/>
2.1	Theoretical Perspectives	19
2.1.1	Cross-cultural Psychological Model of Self-construal: Culture, Narrative, and Identity	19
2.1.2	Social Constructionist Perspective: Identity, Context, and Difference	24
2.1.3	Poststructuralist Perspective: Power Relations, Multiplicity, Fragmentation, and Hybridity of Identities	26
2.1.4	Negotiation of Identities	27
2.2	Research Methodology	28

Chapter
Three Developing Bicultural Consciousness
and Identity: The Dual Domination of Chineseness and Americanness 32

3.1	Pardee Lowe (1904-1998): Chineseness and Americanness—Development, Conflicts, and Negotiation	34
3.1.1	Chineseness: Preservation and Deviation	35
3.1.2	Americanness: Assimilation and Alienation	49
3.1.3	Chineseness and Americanness: The Two Conflicting Forces	52
3.1.4	Negotiation Between Chineseness and Americanness	54
3.2	Jade Snow Wong (1922-2006): The Development of a Comparative Perspective and a Dual Identity	57
3.2.1	Chineseness: Acquisition and Representation	58
3.2.2	Chinese Americans: The Alienated Other in America	72
3.2.3	Development of a Comparative Perspective and a Dual Identity	76
3.3	Louise Leung Larson (1905-1988): Negotiation Between Chineseness and Americanness Outside Chinatown in the Early Twentieth-Century America	84
3.3.1	An Upper-class Chinese American Family's Life	85
3.3.2	Difficulties in Maintaining Chineseness	87
3.3.3	Racial Discrimination and the Dynamics of Identity	90
3.3.4	Being Chinese American, Becoming American	92
3.4	Conclusion: The Dual Domination of Chineseness and Americanness	94

Chapter
Four	Developing Chinese American Consciousness and Identity: The Rejection and Recognition of Ethnic and Cultural Identities	98
<hr/>
4.1	Maxine Hong Kingston (1940-): Imagination, Reality, and Identity Negotiation	101
4.1.1	The Authenticity Debates on The Woman Warrior	102
4.1.2	The Real and Imagined Chinese Culture	105
4.1.3	Woman Warrior and Kingson’s Chinese American Selfhood	112
4.1.4	From a “Jook Sing Girl” to a Chinese American Woman	118
4.2	Ben Fong-Torres (1945-): Negotiations of Ethnic and Cultural Identities in Post-WWII America	121
4.2.1	Growing up in the Late 1940s and 1950s	122
4.2.2	Venturing into the Mainstream America in the 1960s	126
4.2.3	Alienating from the Chinese Parents and the Chinatown Community	130
4.2.4	Dealing with the Identity Crisis	136
4.3	Evelina Chao (1949-): The Transnational Negotiation of Ethnic and Cultural Identities Between America and China	141
4.3.1	Chinese Americans’ “Return” Visits to China	142
4.3.2	Chao’s Identity Crisis as a Second-Generation Chinese American	146
4.3.3	Chao’s Stereotypical Perceptions of China	148
4.3.4	Transnational Negotiation of the Identity Issue	151
4.4	Conclusion: The Rejection and Recognition of Ethnic and Cultural Identities	154

Chapter
Five	Going Beyond Chinese America: Negotiations of the Multiple, Shifting, and Hybrid Identities	160
<hr/>
5.1	May-lee Chai (1967-): A Mixed-Race Family’s Life in America and the Reconfiguration of Ethnic Identity	162
5.1.1	An Overview of Interracial Marriage in the U.S.	163
5.1.2	The Mixed-race Family’s Life in South California and New York	166
5.1.3	The Mixed-race Family’s Life in South Dakota	168
5.1.4	The Hapa’s Identification Between Irishness and Chineseness	177
5.2	Eric Liu (1968-): Ethnicity, Assimilation, and Identity Negotiations	181
5.2.1	Ethnicity: The Problem with Being Different	182
5.2.2	Reconfiguration of Chineseness and Americanness under the Framework of Assimilation	183
5.2.3	Orientalist Stereotypes and Asian American Identity	190
5.2.4	Double Consciousness and the ABC Identity	195
5.3	Eddie Huang (1982-): Violence, Resistance, and Food—Construction of a Multicultural Chinese America	198
5.3.1	Violence and the Difficulty to Fit In	199
5.3.2	Chineseness: The Lost Part of Huang’s Identity	206
5.3.3	“Rotten Banana”: Resistance to the “Model Minority” Stereotype	208
5.3.4	Baohaus: Construction of a Multicultural Chinese America	210
5.4	Conclusion: Negotiations of the Multiple, Shifting, and Hybrid Identities	213

Chapter
Six	Conclusion	217

6.1	Negotiation of Identities over Time and Place among Second-generation Chinese Americans	217
6.2	Towards a New Paradigm for the Study of Second- Generation Chinese Americans' Lives	220

Works Cited	229
--------------------	------------

1. Primary Sources	229
2. Secondary Sources	229