学生答案:

When our teacher asks us to stand on the stage and give a self-introduction, my heart begins pounding. I have to admit that I am quite an introvert and do not have much confidence in my spoken English, let alone speaking in front of the whole class. I summon up all my courage and stumble to the platform. I am so nervous that I am even shaking slightly. But I notice that the teacher is smiling at me and nodding his head as a sign of encouragement. I feel so relieved and realize the importance of facing up to challenges. So, I take a deep breath, tell myself to calm down and start my introduction. When I finally

Sunday

- 1 After a wearisome expedition by car from home, we arrive at my hall of residence, and I check in. The warden gives me a set of keys and a room number. My room is five floors up, and the lift has a sign on it, "Out of order". Finally, with my mother flushed and gasping for breath, we find Room 8, I unlock the door, and we all walk in.

- 2 After one minute, my father climbs out. The room is barely big enough for one, and certainly not big enough for the whole family. I can stretch out full-length on the bed and touch three walls without moving a muscle.

She looks frighteningly intelligent, and when we chat after the lecture, she tells me she read the whole of this term's reading list during her gap year. She's a bit impressive, and I feel so ignorant ... I don't even think I should breathe the same air as her.

■ Active Reading 2

³ All I know of university classes is what I saw a long time ago in the movies in Limerick and here I am sitting in one, The History of Education in America, with Professor Maxine Green up there on the platform telling us how the Pilgrims educated their children. All around me are students scribbling away in their notebooks and I wish I knew what to scribble myself. How am I supposed to know what's
